September 2008

Hi art friends,

In this newsletter I am finally launching something I have thought about and planned for years – portable art! Read more about “touch” on the right and on my website.

The title “eldsjäl” (soul on fire) is one I embrace with pride – Malmö City has declared me to be one, and have made an inspirational movie about me. Also, I have been asked to make the prize for “Best Malmö Ambassador”, which will be awarded during the Malmö event “Guldnatten” in October.

The works that have remained from the last exhibition are now at my studio, and they are constantly being supplemented by new works. Anybody who would like to visit my studio is welcome to book an appointment.

Take care,

Marie Louise

touch

I am often deeply fascinated by a piece of metal with a particular nuance or an etched pattern – so intensely that I literally find it hard to let go of it. I like touching it. Often. Over the years, this feeling has led to an idea taking form – to create portable art. A part of a work of art can be removed from its frame and then worn as a pendant or a brooch. For these works I have etched and patinated copper and brass and the result is a series of jewelry that I call “touch”. Take a look at my website and see if you find anything there you would like to touch.

“ELDSJÄL” - SOUL ON FIRE

The City of Malmö has named me as one of its “souls on fire”! Because of this, the inspiring guys at ZenTV have made a film about me and my art. There’s a link to it on my website.
