Hi art friends,

Thanks to my many, wonderful customers I haven't noticed the credit crunch at all. I'm actually busier than ever before, which I'm very grateful for. Inspiration is also at a high – it usually is when I'm working this intensely.

I've worked hard at the studio during the winter and spring, which has resulted in a lot of new works. They're currently being shown at a big exhibition. I've also given several talks at inspiring events, and am looking forward to more of them.

I hope you'll have a beautiful spring!

EXHIBITION AT GALLERI NEW FORM

The exhibition at Galleri New Form, close to Trelleborg in Sweden, has done very well so far and there's still time to visit it. The gallery's environment is as tasteful as usual, and this time my art has been combined with, among others, ceramics by Merete Rasmussen and sculptures by Peter Mandl.

This winter I've spent a lot of time painting in oils on patinated brass and copper. It's a very time-consuming technique, but the results are fascinating when combined with the color and texture of the metal. There are several works with oil paintings at the exhibition. Shown here are some details from such works. I've also spent a lot of time experimenting with new patinations, which has resulted in many new nuances.

The last day of the exhibition is May 3rd. The gallery is open Tuesday–Sunday, 11am–6pm. There's a map on my website.

TALKS

This spring I've given several talks about my art and entrepreneurship, for instance at renowned glass company Iittala's event for their employees and at the City of Lund's entrepreneurship day, Lund Grand Prix. If your own company is interested, please contact me to discuss the event and get a quotation.
