April 2008

Hi art friends,

I've had a creative winter and so far an inspiring and hectic spring - and only now do I have the time to write my third newsletter (which is also the first in English).

My Easter exhibition in Trelleborg in southern Sweden has gone really well, despite the total lack of spring (and abundance of snow). There's still a chance to see it, since it's been extended until April 8th.

I'm spending spring creating new works which will be ready for viewing at my studio around the end of May. The next big exhibition is on the island of Ven in August. I hope you'll have a pleasant spring and summer until then!

Take care,

Marie Louise

GALLERI NEW FORM, TRELLEBORG

The Easter exhibition at the beautiful gallery in Trelleborg has been extended until April 8th 2008. The participating artists, apart from myself, are sculptor Peter Mandl, ceramist Sandra Davolio, sculptor Gunnar Simonsson and water colorist Olga Semenova. Sandra and Peter's works can be seen with mine in the photos above. Some of the sold works have been collected, but the exhibition is still well worth a visit. The gallery is open Tuesday - Sunday 11am - 6pm.

THE SCANDINAVIAN INSIDER

In the latest issue (No. 9, April 2008) of The Scandinavian Insider (previously South of Sweden) there's a four page article about my art. The Scandinavian Insider writes about mixing business with pleasure in Scandinavia. On my website there's information about where you can find the magazine.

NEW WEBSITE

I have created a fresh new look for my website and added several interesting articles, reviews and photos. The works on the Art page haven't been shown online before, and there are more to come. The URL is the same: www.mlkold.com

OIL PAINTINGS

This winter I've resumed painting with oil on brass in some of my works. Two examples of this fascinating, but time-consuming, technique can be seen at the exhibition in Trelleborg.
